WHO CAN YOU TRUST?

by Dr. Milton Redeker

That first night back under the stars must have been a restless one as David entertained mental flashbacks to the frightening scene of battle in the valley. The intimidating sound of the giant's voice as it echoed across the valley. The rush of patriotic zeal through his veins. The grabbing of those smooth stones....the deadening thud as rock met forehead...the shout of triumph....the admiring look of dismay from the tall Israeli king. But now, all the stargazer heard was silence. He was back where he belonged...back where he loved to be. Away from the heady limelight. The events that followed that quiet night's sleep defied logic. Even though David had conducted himself with humility, loyalty, and integrity, the man whose face he had saved turned against him. King Saul literally went mad. Displeased by a popularity that wasn't his, insecure over his own eclipsed public image, possessed by demonic thoughts that ranged between rage and murder, Saul became a human savage. For more than a dozen years David was forced to run for his life and live like a fugitive. Two magnificent and lasting benefits were born out of that experience: first, the deepening of much of David's character and second, the composing of many of David's psalms. David lived like a hunted animal in the wilderness. Great character, like massive roots, grows deep when water is sparse and winds are strong. Great music, like massive rivers, must come from torrential rains in order to keep flowing, leading to the splendor and vastness of ocean like depths.

And where are you today? Has there been a recent break down? A trust no longer there? A friend no longer near? A dream no longer clear? A future no longer bright? Fears now where there was once laughter and companionship? Misunderstanding now instead of support, affirmation, and admiration? Maybe a Saul stalking your steps, sharpening his spear, waiting for just the right moment to lunge? Take heart! It is in this precise crucible that God can (and often does) do His best work! Some of your best traits and some of your finest contributions will emerge from this incredibly painful period in your life.

CHARLES ROBERSON Retirement Luncheon:

A large crowd gathered in the Chapel on Sunday, August 28 to honor Charles Roberson for his dedicated and faithful teaching of the Bible. Charles volunteered as a teacher in our Adult Ministries for over 40 years! His dedication and service to God's work is truly remarkable. He plans to stay a member of the Young At Heart coed group. Charles is pictured here with the directors, M.C. & Vickie Coody.

REMEMBER WHEN...

This picture was taken in the spring of 2012 when we traveled in a huge bus in search of Texas Bluebonnets in the Hill Country and found this colorful field of wildflowers. Of course we stopped for pie and ice cream at Must be Heaven in Brenham! What a great trip!
